Your homepage on the VLC

- Home – a link to the homepage.
- Current Training – a list of any incomplete courses. This information is also shown in the center of the page.
- Transcript – a record of your learning events.
- Catalog – a listing of all courses available in the VLC. Search this list with the adjacent search bar.
- Help icon – a link to the help text for the VLC.
- Profile icon with your initials – a link to access your account information or log out of the VLC.

The center of the homepage has several blocks of information. The most useful are Current Training and Training Assignments. These list any assigned or incomplete training courses. You can see when the course was started and a due date (if applicable). VLC sends automatic reminder emails for assigned training. Required trainings not completed by the due date may initiate a reminder email to you and your manager.
